

This is a story about Daniel, a boy who liked to eat a lot. Daniel is a kind and special boy who likes to eat just about everything, particularly sweet treats. His friends and family are worried about him, they don't want him to grow up to be an unhealthy boy with an overweight problem, but its hard for Daniel to say no to treats and sweets. As other kids insult him only for the way he looks, Daniel takes a brave decision that turns the story to a whole different meaning. The book is written and illustrated with humor, reminding us, both kids and parents of the importance in living a healthy balanced life.
